Tampa History Center will be the host site of our annual NEW holiday gathering on Tuesday, December 13. What better location for us to meet at this time of year, as we look back and appreciate our lives?

The Tampa Bay History Center is more than a mere repository for historical items and facts. Serving as a liaison between the past and the present, the museum honors our community's character and heritage, stirring the spirit of adventure found in all its visitors with the generations of stories it has to tell.

The fee for this month's lunch is slightly higher than usual because the $30 charge also includes a discounted admission pass for future use. A tasty lunch catered by the Columbia Café will add to the good holiday cheer of networking with old and new friends and acquaintances.

President's Message

Happy Holidays!

Where has 2011 gone? Every year seems to fly by faster! With Thanksgiving just behind us we head into most the hectic of year, with the added demands of the holidays on top of normal demands of work and family. As busy as it is, I find this is also a good time to schedule some business-planning time into the calendar.

What do you want to accomplish on a business level in 2012? You might define your goal as a level of sales, a number of completed projects, or perhaps an added level of accomplishment in your professional role.

What do you want to accomplish on a personal level? It might be finding extra time with family, achieving a fitness goal, or maybe accomplishing an educational goal.

Once you've defined your goals, how are you going to reach them? Do you need to create or update a marketing plan for your business? Do you need to spend time creating a model week so that you have more family time? What steps do you need to take to accomplish these goals?

If you do not already take time in the fourth quarter of each year to update or create your personal business plan, I challenge you to start this year. It's not difficult.

1. Write down the business and personal goals you want to achieve.

2. Outline the specific steps you need to take to accomplish these goals. Create deadlines for the steps. Break those into monthly action steps.

3. Define others, if any, who will play a role in your working toward these goals. Meet with them to communicate your goals and get their "buy in".

4. Post your business/marketing plan in a place where you will see it on an ongoing basis. Consider enlisting someone else to hold you accountable for your goals.

There are many templates and business planning guides you can use as your starting point. Or you can simply outline your plan using a self-created template. The whole point is that by simply writing down your goals and outlining the steps needed to reach them, you are more likely to take action and achieve your goals.

I wish you all the best this holiday season and wish you a great start to 2012!

I look forward to seeing you at our December holiday lunch.

– Laura Rehbein

This month’s event also salutes and benefits two outstanding community groups: The Pace Center for Girls and CASA, the Center Against Spouse Abuse. Representatives from each will join us to tell us about their good works. Attendees are encouraged to make a personal monetary donation to one or both of our honored groups.

Tampa History Center is located at 801 Old Water Street in downtown Tampa. Parking is available at the St. Pete Times Forum lots, the Channelside parking garages, and various surface lots. Or, park in the Ybor City garage and enjoy a relaxing streetcar ride to the Channelside District.

RSVP’s for this event must be received by 4 pm of Friday, December 9. Please bring a guest to share the fun!

Holiday Charities

In NEW we pride ourselves on supporting women through charitable support and empowering relationships. Each December, it is also our tradition to support two local organizations at work day-in and day-out to improve the lives of women and girls. This year, as every year, your recommendations provided a list of worthy groups from which to make our choices. Thank you for your excellent nominations. As is true every year, it’s not easy to choose only two, but we have. I am pleased to inform you of the charities we’re specifically supporting this holiday season. They are:

PACE Center for Girls—PACE provides girls and young women an opportunity for better futures through education, counseling, training, and advocacy. A statewide program with centers in Hillsborough and Pinellas counties, PACE provides non-residential prevention, intervention, and diversion services for at-risk girls and young women between the ages twelve and seventeen. The comprehensive, holistic program integrates social services, education, and career readiness in a safe, gender-responsive environment that reflects an understanding of the lives of girls and responds to their strengths and challenges.

CASA—The Center Against Spouse Abuse’s mission is to raise voices against violence through advocacy, empowerment, and social change. CASA operates a shelter and support programs in Pinellas County to enhance life and employment skills. Community outreach services, a peer counseling group for abusers, and support groups for former shelter residents are provided as well. Children’s advocacy is also a core element of services, and includes in-school programs to help build life-long peacemaking skills.

As Network of Executive Women members, we are fortunate to be accomplished professionals and in positions where we can improve the bottom line of these fantastic organizations through our outreach contributions. Please come to the December luncheon to meet representatives of each of these groups and learn more about their impact on our communities. Your donations are encouraged, to help support their goals. While any amount is appreciated, we hope you’ll donate at least $25 to each.
